Individual Reflection Week 9
Måns Josefsson

... the current situation or "what is" (A),
... what you want the situation to be or "what might or should be" (B), and
... a plan for getting from where you are to where you want to be or "feedback designed to reduce the gap" (A -> B, or C).

Progress since last week

This week has been dedicated to finishing up the bugs and kicking off the structure for the final team reflection. Overall it has gone well and we think that we aim to finish the final team reflection next week.

During the week we have:
- Fixed bugs in our project
- Finished the work relating to making the pages consistent with our UI-API.
- Begun setting up and writing the final team reflection.

- What do I want to learn or understand better?

A: Since we are nearing the end of the project I feel like I have many of the needed tools to finish the rest. When it comes to my goals:
- Brush up on latex and try to apply old code to the new project.
  - This went well, the structure is set up and I have read some of my old latex syntax to catch up.

B: Since only writing remains of the project I want to make sure to cover all of our experiences and problem solving which has been made in this project. It's really about understanding the project.

C: To reach my goals I will take the following measures:
- Read through past documentation and discuss it with the rest of the group.

- How can I help someone else, or the entire team, to learn something new?

Any help I can lend my teammates will have to do with the writing of the report. When it comes to my goals:

- Try to find an effective way to structure the reflection with my team. Try to use earlier experiences with writing reflections to enlighten the others.
  - Me and Felix N have worked on setting this up. The structure is loosely based on an earlier report we wrote.

B: We are going to use a process when writing which will make sure that we read through the document and give feedback to each other multiple times. That way we will share our respective knowledge!

C: To reach my goals I will take the following measures:
- Take part in the process by giving feedback to the team on what they have written.

- What is my contribution towards the team's use of Scrum?

A: The scrum process will not be as apparent this week because of the writing. When it comes to my goals:

- Consider possible solutions to our problems concerning the structure of the bug fixing and refactoring.
  - We have touched on this in the final team reflection where we give some good advice on how this should be handled.

B: Since this next "sprint" will consist of writing, my contribution to scrum will be to reflect back on the project and try to express this in the team reflection.

C: To reach my goals I will take the following measures:
- Reflect with the team in some kind of big review of all the sprints and then express this in the reflection.

- What is my contribution towards the team's deliveries?

A: My teammate Felix N and I handled two smaller bugs in the code this week. These were worked on in addition to my work on the structure of the team reflection. One was renaming the project in the browser and one was fixing a text displaying the wrong information. When it comes to my goals:

- See if there is a need for more bug fixing, if not stick to the reflection.
  - Fixed two bugs.
- Structure the reflection.
  - Structured and wrote some of the final reflection.

B: This coming week I will focus on covering our processes and experiences in the final reflection

C: To reach my goals I will take the following measures:
- Work hard on the report.
